

Stilton Literary Agency

Greek Myths. Gods and Heroes in Ancient Times

Original title: De greske mytene
Publisher: Kagge Forlag 2021
Non Fiction / History
90000 Words
English sample translations available

Inger Merete Hobbelstad

Inger Merete Hobbelstad is a journalist. She works as a commentator and critic in Dagbladet. In 2016 she wrote Living with Shakespeare (Tiden Forlag).

Selected title by NORLA -- extensive translation grants available.

Other titles

The Years with Elizabeth (2019)

The Greek stories of gods and heroes have captivated children and grownups for thousands of years, from ancient times up till today's literature and movies.

In this magnificent book new readers are invited into the stories that have shaped the world we live in.

Inger Merete Hobbelstad is a formidable communicator of classical education. With great knowledge and empathy, she has rewritten the famous twelve Labours of Heracles, Jason and the golden fleece and about Perseus who beheaded Medusa. We meet the mighty and capricious gods, the sparkling Amazons as well as mortal men and women living their lives filled with love, loss and sorrow. The book is beautifully illustrated by Stella East.